Do you need any assistance (e.g. sign language interpreter, speech-to-text-interpreter, technical support)?

[1] Explanation of the different formats:

Lecture: an educational speech in front of an audience

Talk/discussion: a talk or discussion between two or more people about a topic

Seminar: a lecture with a high level of participant involvement

Workshop: full participant involvement in the learning process

Poster presentation: presentation of research results

Student project and/or research presentation: presentation of student projects, research projects or assignments

Film and/or photo presentation: presentation of a topic mainly using film or photographs

Aesthetic presentation: presentation of a topic mainly using aesthetic and artistic elements

Virtual institution visit: a recorded or live video of an institution

Micro-contribution: a small contribution, for example pictures, essays or short videos

[2] Online communication:

Please bear in mind that in times like these, being able to teach and work together digitally is indeed very helpful, but focusing for a long period of time is also very challenging. It may therefore be a good idea to incorporate many small elements of participant involvement into your contribution.

[3] Time zones:

Please note: During the summer time, Germany is in the CEST time zone, which is UTC +2.
